

Working with Osterholm B.V.

Contracting, VAT and wet DBA notes for clients in the Netherlands

Osterholm B.V. is a Utrecht-based IT services company (owner: Bruno Samueli) providing Java / Spring Boot / Kubernetes and AI-assisted development — on-site, hybrid or remote. For Dutch clients this is a domestic B2B engagement with a Dutch BV, the simplest case. The points below answer the questions that usually come from procurement, finance and HR.

1 · Engagement — a service agreement with a Dutch BV

We deliver as an independent service through Osterholm B.V. under an overeenkomst van opdracht: defined, result-based work, using our own equipment and methods. You contract a Dutch private limited company registered with the KvK and receive our invoices — no payroll or uitzendconstructie is required on your side. Where a broker or inhuurdesk is your standard procurement route, we work through those as well.

2 · VAT — standard Dutch btw, fully deductible

As a Dutch company invoicing a Dutch client, Osterholm B.V. charges 21% btw on its invoices. For VAT-registered businesses this is deductible as voorbelasting in the same return, so the engagement is VAT-neutral. No reverse-charge or cross-border mechanics apply.

3 · Wet DBA — genuine independence, documented

Classification is assessed on the actual working relationship, not the legal form — we structure engagements accordingly. The markers of genuine independence are in place: an own company serving clients in NL, DE and AT; entrepreneurial risk; own equipment and methods; result-defined scope; and no embedding in your organisation or reporting line. A properly drafted overeenkomst van opdracht that matches how the work is actually performed addresses the assessment framework of the Belastingdienst; we provide a model on request and are glad to align wording with your legal team.

4 · Documents on request

This note is general information and not tax or legal advice. Your adviser or the Belastingdienst can confirm the points for your specific circumstances.
